

Upper Silesian Question Again At Tense Point

Lloyd George Threatens to Quite And Return
To London

SESSION IS HALTED

British Premier Protests
French Policy; Briand
Stands Firm

By International News Service.

PARIS, Aug. 11.—Great Britain and France came nearer to the breaking point this afternoon over the Upper Silesian question, Germany and Poland.

Premier Lloyd George told Premier Briand that if France continued to maintain her present policy there was nothing for him to do but to return to London.

Briand in reply told the Premier that he could not make any concessions without calling a special session of the Chamber of Deputies and securing their sanction.

The deadlock made it necessary to call off the afternoon session of the Inter-Allied Supreme Council.

President Millerand of France intervened in the Upper Silesian conversations between Premier Lloyd George and Premier Briand today to prevent another serious divergence of views.

The President urged the importance of a settlement to save the entente cordiale of Europe.

The new deadlock between the British and French premiers developed overnight and came to a head at a breakfast this morning attended by Mr. Lloyd George, M. Briand and M. Loucheur, minister for liberated regions in the French cabinet.

Premier Lloyd George was said to have insisted that the British and Italian views prevail while M. Briand said he would refuse to make any further concessions.

The premiers met again at luncheon at the summer home of President Millerand at Rambouillet. Before the luncheon began the French President conferred privately with Premier Lloyd George and Premier Briand, urging the importance of an amicable settlement.

United States Sends Parley Invitations

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES

Staff Correspondent I. N. S.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The United States will today despatch to Great Britain, France, Japan, Italy and China formal invitations for those nations to participate in a disarmament conference and a discussion of Far Eastern policies, at Washington on November 11, Secretary of State Hughes announced today.

The formal invitations will be put on the cables this afternoon and will probably be made public here tomorrow.

The invitations have already been drafted, it is understood. They already have been the subject of several conferences between Secretary of State Hughes and President Harding. It is likely that their actual transmission will be delayed until after tomorrow's cabinet meeting in order that the president's advisers may put a final O. K. on them.

With the first formal steps toward the conference all but completed, the attention of President Harding and his advisers here is turning to the personnel of the American commission, where a real problem is presented.

President Harding's own suggestion that the participating nations limit their delegations to five or six persons already has provided the basis of speculation concerning the system to be followed in selecting America's representatives.

It is considered settled in high quarters here that President Harding himself will take no active part in the deliberations, and that Secretary of State Hughes will act as chairman of and principal spokesman for American delegation.

Two New Stores In Edgely's Mercantile Center

Two more retail stores opened up today at Edgely. John McGuire, who formerly conducted a store at Penn and Pond streets, opened a meat and grocery store.

John B. Evans was ready for the trade with his candy and ice cream parlor.

Edgely is growing rapidly and, where a few years ago one was forced to walk to Headley Manor to get to a store, there are now four stores near the Bristol pike.

Lively Meetings of Strange Sect are Causing Sensation

Crowds Nightly Listen To So-called "Holy Rollers"; Leaders Reticent, Say it is Branch of Pentecostal Church.

The establishment here of a religious sect hitherto unfamiliar to Bristol, and which some call, "The Holy Rollers," is creating a sensation which has spread beyond the Fifth ward, where the sect is now holding meetings.

Nightly, crowds of curious persons gather about the place of worship on Lafayette street, near Pond, in what is known as the "Dean property," and listen to the very audible worship of the congregation. The curious persons try to see what is going on within, to the annoyance and interruption of the worshippers, and there are remarks made about the worshippers from some of the bolder spectators.

Complaint was made once or twice to the police and officers were summoned to disperse the crowd.

The sect is said to have gained a number of members from the local Italian colony. In fact, the organizers of the local congregation are said to come from an Italian mission of the sect which is located in Philadelphia.

So many conflicting reports have been circulated about the strange sectarians and their meetings that a Courier reporter sought to clear up the mystery by interviewing the heads of the local congregation. He was not very successful, however, as a seeming desire to be reticent met his inquiries.

"Don't want anything in the papers about us?" said the Italian who acted as spokesman.

"What is the name of your religious organization?" he was asked. He parried the question by replying, "Like the Pentecostal Christians."

He was next asked whether the worshippers minded the local curiosity they were arousing and the jeers of the neighboring populace, most of whom are Italians, staunch in the Catholic faith, and apparently resentful of the sect's alleged proselytizing.

Maura Asked To Form New Cabinet

Spanish Government Goes on Rocks After Morocco
Military Failures

SITUATION IS CRITICAL

By International News Service.

MADRID, Aug. 11.—The Spanish Cabinet of Premier Alendalazar resigned today because of unsatisfactory conditions of Spanish military affairs in Morocco.

Former Premier Maura has been requested to form a new cabinet which will probably be a coalition one.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Conditions in Morocco, where the disaster to Spanish forces fighting against rebellious Moorish tribesmen brought political matters in Spain to a critical situation, seem to be obscure. There are various reports current in this city, one of them being that the tribesmen have disagreed over the division of the spoils captured from the Spaniards following the defeat of General Silvestra's forces two weeks ago. It has been ascertained that the tribesmen under command of Ad-Bel-Krin have been deserting.

Spanish soldiers who were separated from their main command following the fighting in northeastern Morocco two weeks ago and who fled into the French zone there, lost heavily before making their escape from pursuing tribesmen, it is said in advices from Melilla. They lost 400 men killed, together with machine guns and rifles, before they reached Hassan Huelva where they were welcomed by the French. They remained for two days at Hassan Huelva and then marched on, reaching Oran last Saturday night. Honors were paid them by Zouaves and resident Spaniards at every station along the way. They were brought to Melilla from Oran on board the Spanish steamer Belver.

Very strong Spanish forces have been disembarked at La Restinga on the Moroccan coast southeast of Melilla, says an official statement issued here late last night. It is declared that soldiers who have escaped from Mount Arruit, where General Navarro is virtually surrounded by the Moors, declare that as a result of conferences between General Navarro and enemy chiefs a number of the Moors have deserted and have joined forces with the Spaniards.

Gunman and Garage Owner Fall in Duel

Latter and One of Six Robbers Open Fire Simultaneously

BOTH MORTALLY HURT

By International News Service.

BAITMORE, Aug. 11.—A garage proprietor and a gunman fell, probably fatally wounded, in a desperate pistol battle here early today. Six highwaymen entered the garage of Hugo Kaplan on East Fayette street, for the purpose, it is believed, of robbing the safe which contained more than $1,000. Kaplan, a friend, Albert Rubin, and an employee were in the office when the bandits entered the premises. Kaplan grabbed a revolver from the desk and advanced towards the would-be robbers. One of the alleged bandits, who gave his name as Maurice Goldberg, and Kaplan opened fire simultaneously several shots being exchanged and both men fell. Goldberg's companions dragged him to a waiting automobile and rushed the wounded man to John Hopkins hospital where they left him and escaped in the automobile. Kaplan was taken to the same hospital in a police ambulance. Physicians say there is little chance for the recovery of either men.

Commissioners of Snyder, Union and Northumberland counties met at the old wooden bridge crossing the Susquehanna at Blue Hill to Northumberland and agreed to share cost.

"Jesus was persecuted here on earth," he replied, "and so will we have to be persecuted."

"How many members has your Bristol congregation?" "Oh, quite a number," was the vague reply.

Seeming to become more mollified, however, toward the questioner, the man invited the Courier reporter into a rear room of the residence of V. T. Rizzo, on Lafayette Street. Mr. Rizzo, it is understood, is identified with the new church organization. The room appeared to be used as a headquarters for the sect leaders here.

The room was well furnished and the curtains were drawn low. One other man besides the spokesman was there. An open Bible lay on the couch near the window, where someone had been sitting, evidently leaning over and resting head on hands with elbows on knees reading the Scriptures.

"How long have you been here?" the spokesman was asked.

"About eight months," was the answer.

"Who is in charge?"

"Oh, different ones come out here from the big church."

"Where is the big church?"

"At 11th and Mifflin streets, Philadelphia."

The spokesman refused to give his name to the reporter, but demanded the reporter's card, which, when presented, appeared to act as a sort of tongue loosener. The man still talked with considerable caution, however, and urged that publicity be suppressed.

On a computing scale in the Rizzo store is a small name card on which is printed, "Where will you spend your eternity? Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ and you shall be saved. Acts 16:31."

The reporter asked if the sect was that commonly known as the "Holy Rollers," because of the religious paroxysms the so-called "Rollers" indulge in. That question met the evasive reply.

Maniac Creates Panic On Crowded Street

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—A mysterious man who has been terrorizing the women in widely separated sections of New York City, appeared in Wall street this afternoon at the noon hour rush and threw that thoroughfare into a panic.

The crowd was attracted by the wild screams of a woman, but before men pedestrians on the street could go to her aid, a man who had been beating her with his fists had made his escape. The screams of the maniac's victim created a panic and women shrieked and ran for safety.

A short while after, another attack on a woman was reported as having taken place at Battery Place. The second attack was in the same manner as the Wall street one, but like in the first instance, the man made his escape.

Fry and Keating The Young Blood In Fifth Ward

Represent Younger Element
Owen and Spring Are Stepping Aside For

MAKE POLITICAL BOWS

Active in Affairs But Have Never Held an Office

Two residents of the Fifth ward today announced their candidacies for Council on the Republican ticket.

Roy F. Fry and Edward M. Keating are the new aspirants for the office. Nomination papers are being circulated through the district for signatures which will place both names on the Republican ballot at the September primaries.

Mr. Fry and Mr. Keating will succeed Louis Spring and Josiah M. Owen, both veteran members of the borough legislature, and both of whom have expressed a desire to retire from active management of the town's affairs.

Mr. Fry is a popular resident of the ward. He is a young man and has resided in the ward most of his life. He is an active member of Enterprise Fire Company, No. 5; Bristol Lodge, No. 25, F. & A. M.; and other societies. He represents the "younger blood" of the Republican party in the ward. He has on numerous occasions sat on the election board of the ward.

Edward M. Keating has also lived in the ward for some time. He is a coal salesman, with offices in Philadelphia. Mr. Keating has never before taken any active part in politics but has surrendered to the pleadings of his friends and permitted his name to be used as a candidate.

Democrats in the fourth ward today are circulating nomination papers for a new representative in council from that district. The man whose friends are determined to land him in the borough legislature is James B. McGinley.

Mr. McGinley has been active in Democratic politics and his friends claim that he will easily be elected. He will take the place of John J. Gallagher, Jr., who is not a candidate for re-election.

Bootleggers Shoot Another Victim

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Shot to death by two men who calmly sought him out in a crowded restaurant in Christie street, Joseph Passantino died early today, eighteenth victim of what the police believe to be a bootlegger's feud in New York's underworld.

The cafe in which Passantino met his death was crowded at the time of the shooting. No one, according to the dead man's partner, who sat with him, and whom the murderers carefully avoided in their fire, made the least attempt to stop the shooting or detain the gunmen.

Passantino had been engaged in bootlegging operations the police say, after his release from a nine year term at Atlanta prison.

A secret room under the cafe, accessible only through a trapdoor, showed signs of a struggle having taken place, detectives said, but no one could give them any information about this.

Pennsylvania Given Fifteen Days Grace

By International News Service.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—The Pennsylvania Railroad, at its own request today has been granted fifteen days of grace in which to comply with the recent order of the United States Railroad Labor Board to hold a conference with its employees to arrange for the election of a committee to draw up new working agreements.

Samuel Rea, President of the road, wired the labor board, asking for an extension of time and the board granted the request. A strike of the 35,000 shopcraft employees of the road, it is believed, has been averted, temporarily at least, by the road's action.

Hearings were resumed by the labor board today on the protests filed by employees of more than seventy roads against the application of the piece-work system in railway shops.

Legion and Italian Colony Honor Hero

John J. Nocito's Body Home
And Will Be Buried
Sunday

WAS KILLED IN ACTION

The second body of a Bristol Italian who lost his life in the war to arrive home reached here last night. It is that of John J. Nocito, 204 Penn street.

The dead soldier left the United States to sail overseas July 7, 1918. He was trained at Camp Meade. He was killed in action by shrapnel fire in the Meuse Valley, November 5, 1918.

Nocito was in real, active fighting and saw some of the most bloody battles of the war.

As soon as the body arrived in Bristol last night, the fond parents of the dead boy draped the American flag above the door of the Nocito home. A crowd of the young Italian's friends gathered and stood respectfully in front of the residence until the body was placed in the front room by the undertaker.

A military funeral will be held Sunday morning by Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion.

The Legion will have the 18th Infantry band from Camp Dix. The usual services will be held. There will be high mass in St. Ann's Italian Catholic Church at 10:30 Sunday morning. Burial will be made in St. Mark's cemetery, where a picture of the deceased has been placed in the headstone which marks his grave.

All members of the Bracken Post, and all ex-service men, are urged to attend the funeral. They will meet in the Post rooms Sunday morning at 9:30, and are requested to turn out whether they have uniforms or not.

Nocito was a popular youth and it is anticipated that his funeral will be very largely attended.

No Signs Of Peace In Asia Minor Yet

By International News Service.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—There is no sign of peace in Asia Minor regardless of the outcome of the Greek offensive.

The allies have decided to allow the Greeks and Turks to fight it out without outside intervention.

If the Greeks fail to rout the forces under Mustapha Kemal Pasha they must submit to long drawn out guerrilla warfare, with the Turks harassing their long lines of communication for months to come. The Turks have already suffered a series of reverses and are giving up their capital—Angora—but the main body of the Kemal army is still virtually intact.

Even if the Greeks decisively whip the Turkish nationalists it is the opinion of competent military authorities that fighting will again break out later on.

The elusive Enver Pasha, young Turk leader and implacable foe of the allies, is still at large. Enver Pasha, who led the Turkish into the world war on the side of Germany was in Moscow at last reports waiting for a change to reorganize the Asia Minor Turks with Russian Bolshevik support and make another attempt to drive the Greeks out of Asia Minor.

Find Body of Murdered Priest Buried In Sand

By International News Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—The body of Father Patrick E. Heslin, has been found.

Murdered and buried in a lonely hillside crypt on Salada Beach, the missing priest was taken from his grave in the sand early today by a posse headed by Chief of Police Daniel O'Brien and Constable S. A. Landini. He had been shot twice. One bullet went through his heart, another through his head, opening a gaping wound through the skull.

By his side was the blessed sacrament which he had taken with him when called from his Colma parish house ten days ago to answer an ostensible errand of mercy.

Veteran Councilmen Decide To Step Out and Give The Younger Element A Chance

Seek Old Coin Loot
of Eddington Home

Thieves Enter During Sojourn of Banker's Family
At Shore

THEY WERE SCARED OFF

State police and constables of lower Bucks County are trying to get trace of the robbers who got away with old coins valued at $2500 from the residence of Charles H. Smith, Eddington. The robbery was committed Sunday night, according to a statement made today. The disappearance of the coins has been kept more or less quiet.

Mr. Smith, a member of the banking firm of Charles Smith & Sons, 303 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, had closed his Eddington home and is spending the summer at Cape May.

The thieves, who it is believed, poisoned a watch dog at the farmhouse on the Smith estate last Thursday, entered the house by climbing a trellis to an unlocked window on the second floor. Finger prints were found on the frame of the window.

Apparently, the thieves were scared away before they had finished their work. A large quantity of linen had been piled on the second floor. The thieves had not reached the first floor, and bric-a-brac there was untouched.

The robbery was discovered by farmers who work for Mrs. Smith and live at a farmhouse on the estate near the Smith home.

Mr. Smith said today that he will offer a reward of $200 for the arrest of the thieves.

German Officials Remain Undisturbed

BY FRANK E. MASON

Staff Correspondent I. N. S.
BERLIN, Aug. 11.—Although black war clouds are again rolling up along the German Polish frontier German officialdom remains serene, concentrating its attention upon the Rain-bow which it believes it sees over the British Isles.

Reports to the German intelligence department confirms press dispatches that the Poles are feverishly concentrating troops upon the German frontier.

According to the Abendblatt, 39,000 Polish regulars, partly under French command have been massed along the German border, some in the Dantzig corridor.

"Germany has only 10,000 reichswehr troops left to her under the Treaty of Versailles," said an official close to Chancellor Wirth.

"France will attempt to use the Franco-Polish alliance as an excuse for finally seizing the Ruhr district, but England will prevent this. If France disregards England's views and occupies the Ruhr independently it will mean the breakup of the European entente."

Wholesale arrest of Germans in Upper Silesia was reported in a Grand-duke despatch to the "Taegliche Rundschau." The arrests, it was said, were made by Poles, masquerading in French uniforms.

Premier Witos, of Poland and foreign minister Skirmunt, of Poland, are on record with the declaration that Poland will not accept an Upper Silesian decision that is unfavorable to Poland. German officials regard the assertions of the Polish premier and foreign minister as the forerunner to provocative incidents which may lead to a Polish declaration of war against Germany. Such a war would mean the tearing up of the treaty of Versailles according to German officialdom and they point out that Premier Lloyd George has already issued a similar warning to Premier Briand of France.

Berlin bankers are not alarmed over the outlook. Financial circles received a report that Upper Silesian industrial magnates have offered the British one third interest in their concerns if the industrial district is awarded to Germany or a better percentage if the industrial district is converted into a neutral state under administration of the allies. The creation of a free state would put the Upper Silesian industries beyond the reach of the high taxes that have been imposed to help the government out on indemnity. From the same source it is learned that the Poles have offered to liquidate the German industrial holdings and give one half of the money to France in payment of Polish debts if the Upper Silesian industrial district is awarded to Poland.

Robbed and thrown from a high bridge at Martin John J. Spear is in Uniontown hospital in a serious condition.

Valuable Paintings Stolen From Frames

BAITMORE, Md., Aug. 11.—Following the discovery that oil paintings, the work of some of the best American and European artists, valued at approximately $10,000 had been stolen from the private studio of Nathan D. Smith of this city, the police today set out a general alarm.

The stolen paintings were removed from their frames by the thief. A strong box in Mr. Smith's private office was opened and $175 taken. Police today admitted they had no clues.

Most of Six Retiring Members Have Served Many Years

TOTAL ABOUT 75 YEARS

Frequently Expressed Desire
To Retire But Persuaded
To Remain

Six of the present members of borough council are not candidates for re-election to that body. All of the retiring members are Republicans, except one, and the majority of them have sat in the town's legislative body for many years. Their terms range over periods covering from five to 22 years and total about 75 years of honorable service to the community.

Most of these retiring are doing so in order to give the younger element an opportunity. These veterans have frequently expressed the desire to quit Council, but have been persuaded to stand for re-election time after time. So valued have they been that it is a fact that some of the younger men who are today seeking the nomination refused to announce their candidacies until they were convinced that the present incumbents refused positively to run.

Those retiring are: First ward—Warren H. Thompson. Second ward—Griffith L. Williams. Third ward—W. Furman Young. Fourth ward—John J. Gallagher, Jr. Fifth ward—Louis Spring and Josiah M. Owen.

Josiah M. Owen, of the Fifth ward, is president of Council, which office he has held for the past nineteen years. He has been a member of council for twenty years. He is one of the most regular attendants of Council. Rarely is he absent from the sessions and then only when illness prevents his attendance.

Mr. Spring is another constant attendant at the meetings of the body. He has been a member of Council for twenty-two years and has represented the Fifth ward for 16 years.

In 1890 he was elected as a representative on page 3, Col. 2.)

Hitch Over Freeing Of Americans Now

By International News Service.

AIGA, Aug. 11.—A hitch has occurred in the liberation of American citizens by Russia and the negotiations between Walter L. Brown, European director of American relief and Boris Litvinoff, of the Soviet government, have been postponed until the remaining 21 Americans still detained in Russia, are set free.

The six Americans who crossed into Ethonia from Russia on Wednesday morning were still at Reval at last reports recuperating from their imprisonment and their journey out of the country.

Director Brown and Litvinoff were introduced to one another by the Lithuanian foreign minister. Preliminary negotiations were begun on Wednesday but when the American relief workers found that there were still a score of American citizens in Russia he said that there could be no further negotiations regarding Russian relief until these Americans were out.

Great Britain Stars To Exploit Russia

By International News Service.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Great Britain's first movement for exploitation of Russia upon a gigantic scale was under way today. Leslie Urquhart, chairman of the Russo-Adriatic Mining Company, owners of vast mining concerns in Siberia before the war, will leave on Sunday for Moscow at the invitation of the Soviet.

In Moscow, Mr. Urquhart will arrange for the return of the property to its former owners. The property includes 2,500,000 acres of rich mineral territory, and 500 miles of railway lines, valued at $500,000,000. The Soviet took over this property when it became the governing power in Russia.

THE HOSPITALS DISBANDMENT

The fact that the Harriman Hospital must close its doors and suspend its ministrations because its cost of maintenance is too great for the community to carry is very lamentable.

The establishment of a modern, completely equipped hospital in Bristol was a decided advance step for the community. It meant much for the health and hygiene of the community, as well as for the standing of Bristol in philanthropic effort.

Maintained by the Government during the war period, and subsequently, the hospital and its support seemed but a natural heritage and obligation for the community when the time arrived for the Government to cease its many activities related to war industry.

The community, through its Citizens' Advisory Board and Physicians' Committee, gladly took over the hospital, feeling fortunate in securing an already equipped and going institution.

There were some doubts as to whether, with the curtailment of industry through the shutting down of the shipyard and other plants that were in full blast during the war and creating need for hospital ministrations, there would be much need for a hospital of the size of this.

These doubts seem to have been realized, to some extent, but more apparent seems to be the fact that the hospital is too large and costly of maintenance for Bristol.

Plans are being canvassed for the establishment of a smaller hospital—one which will be more of an emergency institution, not in continuous use and only employed in emergencies. Not being under constant operation and entailing continuous "overheads", this smaller emergency hospital may be within the means of Bristol.

It is to be hoped that these plans will be consummated.

A better plan, it seems, would be to try to enlist the interest and assistance of adjacent communities in the Harriman Hospital. The institution has been a God-send to persons who have been in sudden need of hospital care, such as accident victims. Previous to the establishment of the Harriman Hospital it was necessary to convey sick and injured persons all the way to Frankford, Philadelphia, or to Trenton.

The other river towns should join Bristol in supporting the hospital.

If something is not done, the Government will no doubt dismantle the hospital and the surrounding country will lose an establishment which, though it cannot perhaps now be supported, may later be devoutly wished for and be unsecurable at so low an expenditure as is now required.

FOUL MOUTHED FANS

Clean sport always succeeds and cleanliness in amateur sports is absolutely necessary to their success.

The twilight games being played in Bristol are proving popular past-times for local people and the games are being well attended. There is one feature of these games which is marring them, however, and it is something which should be called to a halt.

It is the profanity heard, not so much on the field and among the players as from the spectators.

If the twilight players want to hold their crowds they must enforce discipline at their games in this respect. Many women and children are attending these games and with the attendance of the women, much in the way of attracting others to attend is provided. How long will these women followers of the sport continue to follow if the profanity continues? Not very long, it is safe to predict.

No particular team nor no particular crowd offends in this respect more than another. Neither is profanity heard any more on one diamond than another. The offense is prevalent at both grounds. The management and players should, out of respect to the decent people who witness their playing, see that the profanity ceases. They should have the foul-mouthed fans ejected or refuse to play before them.

SEEDS OF FUTURE WARS SOWN

Every American who has read "The American Commonwealth"—and all republicans who wish to understand and value representative government should read it, respects the opinion of Viscount James Bryce, former British Ambassador to the United States. Bryce elucidated our political system better than any one else, and, though a few of his subsequent excursions into history were not so reliable, he is regarded as a leading authority on political forms and changes and racial progress and development.

Bryce, who has followed the mazes of the past in Europe, and studied the rise and fall of kingdoms and republics, told the Institute of Politics, in his address on "International Relations of the Old World States," that the seeds of future wars were sown by the Versailles Conference. Statesmen who participated in that conference played down to their electorates, and "popular prejudice, popular passions and cupidities, had to be humored or gratified."

The rivalry between Germany and France is, he said, more bitter than ever. "The victors bear as much resentment against the vanquished as the vanquished do against the victors," and "there is no blacker cloud, pregnant with future storm, hanging over Europe now, than that which darkens the banks of the Rhine." Italy had no historical title to the Germanic territory which it sought to acquire. The situation in Russia calls for a Napoleon; and, when Russia does recover, it will attempt to reconquer all of its lost territory, except Poland and Finland. Turkey still is the danger spot of the world.

Bryce bases his fears on events of the past. Abnormal adjustments turned out always to be explosives. The Austro-Hungarian and Balkan combinations of enmity, jealousy, mistrust and dissatisfaction were the firebrands of the world war.

Yet, history also discloses preventives of eruptions, the best of all being autonomy. It is only through sympathy, understanding and independence that trouble among the nations will be frustrated.

FAILURE OF THE SOVIET GOVT.

Secretary Hoover attributes the famine and plague in Russia to these principal causes: Decadence of agriculture, due to lack of interest by the farmers and want of machinery; neglect of transportation, resulting in a general breakdown; cessation of industry in the cities, and depreciation of the value of the money because of inflation. Russia, generally an exporter of foodstuffs, is producing a quantity considerably insufficient for the needs of its own people.

These deductions conform with ideas which have prevailed generally for some time. As they are founded on trustworthy information, probably the best information obtainable, they are of particular significance. The United States can and will succor the unfortunate Russians. But what about the institution of efficient and stable government?

A St. Louis woman bequeathed money to physicians who treated her. This is a precedent which is hardly commendable, or safe.

The Stroller

HUMAN INTEREST ITEMS GATHERED ABOUT TOWN AND ITS PEOPLE

Once more we have consigned to the waste basket an interesting communication, and one which our readers would have loved to read. It was signed "Justice to the Sport."

If you want your communications to appear in the Courier a bona-fide name must be signed to them. Once again we say this name is not necessarily for publication but as an evidence of good faith on the part of the writer.

There are some people in Bristol who will rejoice over the closing of the hospital. They are the "I told you so" fellows.

But the doctors had an idea and they wanted to work it out. They have done it and if nothing else has been proven by the experiment it has been demonstrated that a hospital is needed in this section. Many a life has been saved, many persons have been benefited in health and much suffering has been prevented which otherwise would have tortured those relieved.

Let us try the same plan on a smaller scale.

Don't mention "Clean Up Week," or "tidying up the place," or "burning up waste paper" to Bob Pearson, the John Wanamaker of Mill street, if you don't want to hear an explosion from Bob.

The reason is:— Mrs. Pearson was going in to the city several days ago and her husband asked her to stop at one of the wholesale houses he deals with and get three or four samples of Fall styles in ladies' waists.

Mrs. Pearson did so, and brought back four samples. Her husband was rather busy when she handed the parcel containing the waists to him and satisfied himself with merely cutting the string of the package, glancing at the waists and leaving them lying in the opened package on the counter.

Later on, at closing time, the orderly Bob noticed that a good day's business had caused the accumulation of a lot of waste paper, and he proceeded to clean up.

No further thought of the sample waists entered his mind until late that night, as he and Mrs. Pearson were retiring. "What did I do with those sample waists you brought?" quired

Medicine More and More Concerned With Disease Prevention Than Cure

By DR. JACON DINER, New York physician

Medicine is becoming more and more concerned with the prevention of disease rather than the cure. The day will come when it will be a disgrace for a man to be sick, because that will be a public acknowledgment that he has not lived according to common sense. We advocate the intelligent application of health rules because they make for efficiency.

A man should treat himself at least no worse than he would treat his horse. He takes the feedbag away from his horse when he thinks the horse has enough to eat, but he keeps his own feedbag on so long as he feels like eating. "More people dig their graves with their own teeth" than are put out of existence in any other way.

In my opinion, the business man who does without a vacation is a poor financier, because he is drawing on the bank of health without making a deposit, and if he keeps doing that long enough the cashier of the bank of health will notify him he has overdrawn the account. In some cases the banks get "sore" and close the account. In the case of the human being that means a funeral.

the merchant prince of his helpmate. "Why, you left them on the counter," was her reply. "No, by golly, I didn't," exclaimed the awakened Bob. "I just went and threw them into that bonfire I made of the waste paper."

Sure, enough, when Bob raked over the embers of his "waste paper" bonfire in the rear of the store, the following morning, there were traces of the waists—just a charred scrap or so of lace and a few pearl buttons.

"Holy smoke," ruefully exclaimed Bob, "$8, wholesale price, gone up in smoke."

It was supposed when the war stopped that we were going to beat our swords into plowshares, but according to all indications most of our plowshares have been beaten into automobile engines.

While people can't get enough to eat in the cities, good land lies idle in the country because no one wants to raise food on it.

Some people will let their business or home work drag for lack of help when a little want ad in the classified section of The Courier would in all probability provide the assistance they need.

In view of the daylight saving idea, it might be a good idea to set the calendar ahead a month and see if people wouldn't feel cooler.

The popular impression prevails that Congress is asleep, but probably they are merely lying down to get their ears to the ground.

While John Barleycorn was ignominiously kicked out the front door, sounds are heard that he is trying to climb in by the cellar window.

A MAN FOR THE AGES

A Story of the Builders of Democracy

By IRVING BACHELLER

It was a new town to which Samson turned. The governor and the state officers had moved to Springfield. The new capitol was nearing completion. The hard times which had followed the downfall of '37 had unjustly diminished Mr. Lincoln's confidence in his ability as a legislator. He enjoyed the practice of the law, which had begun to turn his interest from the affairs of state. But the pot of political science boiled before the fireplace in the rear of Joshua Speed's store every evening that Lincoln and his associates were in Springfield. The wit and wisdom which bubbled into its vapors and the heat that surrounded it were the talk of the town. Many came to witness the process and presently it was moved, for a time, to more accommodating quarters. Before a crowd of people in the Presbyterian church, Lincoln, Logan, Baker and Browning for the Whigs, and Douglas, Calhoun, Lamborn and Thomas for the Democrats, having assiduously prepared for the trial, debated the burning issues of the time. The effort of each filled an evening and Lincoln's speech gave him new hope of himself. Wise men began to have great confidence in his future. He had taken the style of Webster for his model. He no longer used the broad humor which had characterized his efforts on the stump. A study of the best speeches of the great New Englander had made him question its value in a public address. Digully, clear reasoning and impressiveness were the chief aims of his new method, the latter of which is aptly illustrated by this passage from his speech in reply to Douglas in the debate mentioned:

"If I ever feel the soul within me elevate and expand to those dimensions not wholly unworthy of its Almighty Architect, it is when I contemplate the cause of my country deserted by all the world besides, and I standing up boldly and alone and hurling defiance at her victorious oppressors. Here without contemplating consequences before high heaven and in the face of the world I swear eternal fidelity to the just cause, as I deem it, of the land of my life, my liberty and my love."

In these perceptive utterances one may find little to admire save a great spirit seeking to express itself and lacking as yet the refinement of taste equal to his undertaking. He was no heaven-born genius "sprung in full panoply from the head of Jove." He was just one of the slow, common folk, with a passion for justice and human rights, slowly feeling his way upward. His spirit was growing.

strong in its love and knowledge of common men and of the things necessary to their welfare, it was beginning to seek and know "the divine power of words." Every moment of leisure he gave to the study of Webster and Burke and Byron and Shakespeare and Burns. He had begun to study the art of Irving and Walter Scott and of a new writer of the name of Dickens.

There were four men who slept with him in the room above Speed's store, and one of them has told how he used to lie sprawled on the floor, with his pillow and candle, reading long after the others had gone to sleep. Samson writes that he never knew a man who understood the art of using minutes as he did. A detached minute was to him a thing to be filled with value. Yet there were few men so deeply in love with fun. He loved to laugh at a story-telling and to match his humor with Thompson Campbell—a famous raconteur—and to play with children. Fun was as necessary to him as sleep. He searched for it in people and in books.

He came often to Samson's house to play with "Mr. Nimble" and to talk with Joe. Some of his best thoughts came when he was talking with Joe and some of his merriest moments when he was playing with "Mr. Nimble." He confessed that it was the latter that reminded him that he had better be looking for a wife.

But Lincoln was only one of many remarkable personalities in Springfield who had discovered themselves and were seeking to be discovered. Sundry individuals were lifting their heads above the crowd, but not with the modesty and self-distrust of Honest Abe. "Steve" Douglas, whom Samson had referred to as "that little rooster of a man," put on the stilts of a brave and ponderous vigor. His five-foot stature and his hundred pounds of weight did not fit the part of Achilles. But he would have no other. He blustered much with a spear too heavy for his hands. Lincoln used to call him a kind of popgun.

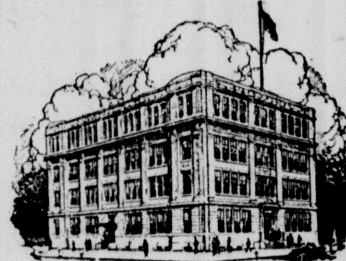

This free-for-all joust of individualism—one of the first fruits of freedom in the West—gave to the life of the little village a rich flavor of comedy. The great talents of Douglas had not been developed. His character was as yet shifty and shapeless. Some of the leading citizens openly distrusted him. Lincoln never liked this little man, in opposing whom he was to come to the fulness of his power on the platform. It is evident that Lincoln regarded him as an able advocate of small sincerity looking chiefly for personal advancement.

ANNOYING KIDNEY ILLS

Make Life Miserable for Many Bristol People

There's nothing more annoying than kidney weakness or inability to properly control the kidney secretions. Night and day alike, the sufferer is tormented and what with the burning and scalding, the attendant backache, headache and dizziness, life is indeed, a burden. Doan's Kidney Pills have given peace and comfort to many Bristol people. Profit by this Bristol resident's experience.

Mrs. Mary E. Hess, 562 Bath street, says: "I had a bad attack of kidney complaint that was brought on through over-work. I got sore and lame across my back and couldn't get around. I had dreadful headaches and my kidneys acted irregularly. I felt tired and nervous all the time. I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and before long, I got over the trouble entirely." (Statement given October 1, 1917.)

On June 28, 1921, Mrs. Hess added: "Since giving my former statement for Doan's Kidney Pills, I have had occasion to use them and the results obtained were just the same as before."

Bridesburg Team is to Repeat Here Sunday

Will Play Chappie Johnson's Famous Norfolk Stars

WILL BRING ROOTERS

The fast Bridesburg team will meet the famous Chappie Johnson's Norfolk Stars at the Harriman diamond on Sunday next.

These teams have met twice this year, resulting in one victory each. The game on Sunday will decide the issue.

Bridesburg made a very favorable impression on the fans in their game against Hilldale last Sunday.

The biggest crowd ever seen in the Harriman baseball emporium turned out to see Hilldale administer a lacing to Bridesburg. It was a great game and was thoroughly enjoyed by the fans.

Bridesburg will be at full strength on next Sunday, as they are anxious to take the Stars into camp. The latter team, however, is playing great ball and Bridesburg will have to go some to bring home the bacon.

Voltz will probably pitch for Bridesburg.

Every game recently at Harriman has been a first class attraction, and the new management of the park has already won the confidence of the fans in their endeavors to produce nothing but the best that can be secured. Dave Waters is a busy man this week putting the ground in the best of shape. The arrangements for the comfort of the spectators last Sunday was perfect.

There will be a big delegation of rooters from Bridesburg and of course the Norfolk Stars will have their regular quota of rooters, and these rooters sure do root.

ply: "We worship Jesus and that is all."

Inquiry about the "mother church" at 11th and Mifflin streets, Philadelphia, discloses that those worshipping in that edifice are Pentecostal Christians. The services held in this church are conducted principally in English and attended by Americans. There is an Italian branch, or mission, which meets at the Philadelphia church every night at eight o'clock and on Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

Those residing in the vicinity of 11th and Mifflin say that the Italian worshippers are at times boisterous.

Pressed for explanation as to the actions of the local congregation, Mr. Rizzo replied: "When the spirit gets low, we get on our knees, and then we are filled with the spirit."

Here he indicated that there might be just the tendency to jump and shout when the worshippers become filled with the spirit."

Colored Community Defeats Steel Team

Scores Second Victory of Season at Twilight Game

ROMEO PITCHED WILD

BY FRANCIS G. ELLIS
The Colored Community Club registered its second victory of the season last night by defeating the Steel's mill team 9-3.

Manager Willhite's warriors took advantage of Romeo's wildness in the three innings he pitched, and this, coupled with some timely hits, piled up a total of nine runs. Dustin relieved Romeo and prevented further scoring.

Two errors on the part of Thompson, a stolen base and Pigeon's safe hit to right field gave the Steel nine runs in the fourth inning. Gustie's hit, an error, and an out tallied their final run in the sixth.

'ROUND THE SPORT CIRCLE

WITH JACK VEIOCK,
International News Sporting Editor.

LITTLE WILLIE denied that he burglarized the pantry and stole the jam. But the jam was on his hands and face in plain sight.

The Black White Sox are in the same boat with Willie, so to speak. They knew what was going on between certain of their number and a lot of crooked gamblers of their emissaries. Yet they deny their guilt.

After a fasion the erring Sox players have been whitewashed by a Chicago jury. But now that they have acquitted in their pockets what good are they?

Organized Baseball is through with them forever. The great baseball public is heartily behind Judge Landis in his ultimatum, which bars the players from ever again donning uniforms within professional ranks. They had it coming and they got it. Most of them realized this before Commissioner Landis even expressed an opinion on the subject. Buck Weaver alone expressed hope of returning to the game.

No matter what part Weaver took or did not take in the fixing of the 1919 world's series the fact remains that he knew about it. Fandom cannot forget or forgive Weaver for keeping his mouth shut. In the eyes of the baseball public there is "jam" on his hands, the same as on the hands of the others.

The erring Black Sox—for they are still black to the average fan—were fortunate to get off as easily as they did, in the estimation of a big majority of readers of the sport pages.

The main difference between the sure-thing boys and Jesse James lies in the fact that Jesse rode a horse.

THOSE PIRATES

In days of old the buccaneers were bad and bold galoots. With knives and sickles in their belts and pistols in their boots;

They terrorized the Seven Seas when Captain Kidd held sway—
You wouldn't think a Pirate band could pull that stuff today.

But cast your eye on Gibson's gang of Pirates up to date.

Change of Schedule of the

Trenton, Bristol and Philadelphia Street Railway Company

Owing to the work being done by the State Highway Commission on Bridge Street, Morrisville, and the difficulty we have in operating our cars at this point; during the time this work is in progress we will discontinue running our cars into Trenton. Arrangements have been made with the Pennsylvania-New Jersey Railway Company to make close connections with our cars, so that our passengers will experience as little inconvenience as possible.

Through cars for Morrisville will leave Torresdale on the hour, and will pass Bath Street, Bristol at thirty-five minutes after the hour.

Half hourly service will be maintained from Torresdale to Tullytown from 6.30 A. M. to 10 A. M., the service will then be hourly until 2 P. M., when the half hour service will again be maintained from 2 P. M. until 10 P. M.

Gladys Walton will be at the New Colonial Theatre tonight in "Short Skirts," her latest Universal photodrama, filmed from the widely read story "Gabella Drives the Nail," which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post from the pen of Alice L. Tildesley.

Miss Walton's recent successes, "Pink Tights," "The Man Tamer" and "Deperate Youth," were considered to have in abundance those qualities which have endeared the little star to millions of playgoers; but in the current story she has a vehicle even more admirably suited to her capabilities.

rent story she has a vehicle even more admirably suited to her capabilities.

The story dwells upon a little girl who wants to appear older than she is and who plays with fire for the thrill. She nearly wrecks a good man's chance to be elected mayor, blights her mother's happiness and makes a mess of her life until the hero steps in, administers a mental spanking and straightens her out for a flying trip down the boulevard of common sense—but with more thrills than she could possibly have felt on the dangerous bramble-path.

Sensational modern fashions are cleverly contrasted with the clothes of a generation ago in the novel prologue which precedes the main story.
